PARTNER PRESENTS ON AI PATENTING AT 2022 AUTM ANNUAL MEETING

Feb 02, 2022

BCLP Partner George Chen will present at the 2022 AUTM Annual Meeting on Feb. 21, hosted in New Orleans and virtually. George will discuss the legal aspects of patenting artificial intelligence (AI) inventions, including a summary of the evolution of the U.S. laws related to patenting such inventions, as related to inventorship, and subject matter eligibility post-Alice. He will further touch on the best practices for counseling clients regarding how to identify such inventions that are more likely to be suitable for patenting, and how to draft patent applications that are more likely to be issued as a patent by the U.S. Patent & Trademark Office.

The program will be moderated by Hope Shimabuku, director of the USPTO Texas Regional Office. Additional panelists include: Charles Kim, director of the Office of Petitions at the USPTO; and Risto Miiikulainen, professor of computer science and neuroscience at the University of Texas at Austin, director of the UTCS Neural Networks Research Group, AVP of Evolutionary AI, Cognizant Technology Solutions.

AUTM is the nonprofit leader in efforts to educate, promote and inspire professionals to support the development of academic research that changes the world and drives innovation forward.

George serves on BCLP's firmwide international Board and is the leader of the Intellectual Property Practice for the firm's Phoenix office. He partners with long-term clients to develop, protect, enforce, defend, license and commercialize intellectual property and other business assets.
